Customer Reviews

I first bought the Victoriana calendar in 1989 which was its inaugural year. Since this was also the year my husband and I got married and moved in to our current home it is easy to remember that a Victoriana calendar has been gracing my kitchen for each of these twenty-five years. The 2014 calendar follows its predecessors' formula with some especially beautiful monthly themes. In January the theme seems to be lovely ladies and their accessories as we have beautifully dressed women, gloves, ribbons, jewels and an assortment of flowers including pansies and lily of the valley featured. The center Valentine for February is cupid and a young lady and they are surrounded by lavish decorations traditional for heart day. March has a St. Patrick's Day theme that also works well for the coming of spring. A young miss in a lilac decorated Easter bonnet accompanied by many other Easter/spring symbols makes April an especially pretty month. Mother's Day is recognized in May with a young mother, father and babe surrounded by flowers the most prominent being pink roses. June is for cats not brides this year and a little girl holding one takes center stage with other children, flowers and kitties circling them. July is very patriotic with Betsy Ross sewing the first flag and other Victorian symbols of the United States grouped around her. August is by the sea with a comely young woman in a very modest bathing outfit plus many other seaside pictures. September shows us young well dressed ladies bowling as well as other old fashioned pictures with autumn tones. October showcases a young blonde witch and lots of black cats and other traditions of Halloween. November has children playing a puzzle game plus Thanksgiving turkeys and kids and adults enjoying their leisure activities.
