Customer Reviews

When I do MadLibs with my class (elementary school special ed), I often have to skip some stories because they are too complex. I also have to paraphrase the harder words in the regular versions of MadLibs. This has easier language, so I always get this book for my class to use in October. I don't like the way that symbols are used instead of the words "verb," "noun," etc, and I wish that it included adverbs. I'm also not a fan of the "misc" category, which actually seems to be just more nouns. I use MadLibs to reinforce parts of speech, so I have to add that back in to make this more useful. All in all, though, it's a great tool and fun game.

I always have a family Halloween party and am in search of new games/activities. The ages of my family range from newborn to 70s, and Mad Libs proved to be fun for everyone! is a great place to shop!

MadLibs are great activities for kids! They are very entertaining and humorous to them, sometimes even to adults too to hear what they come up with!

Mad Libs, guaranteed to have your kids howling with laughter. Mad Libs Junior is geared to 1st-3rd graders, and is a great way to start doing Mad Libs with them.

My 5 year old son loves doing this. It's educational too to teach kids what a noun, verb, adverb, adjective is.

My six year old grandson finds these hilarious. When we do them together it helps him use a bigger vocabulary.
